TEST ALARM OF FIRE FINDS TWO FIREMEN ABSENT FROM POSTS

Chief H. C. Klein Plays Trick on Men at Station No. 2.—Removes Brides from Horses.
Janesville firemen, especially those at Station No. 2, will not be found absent from their posts for a long time to come in consequence of a trick played last night by Chief Henry C. Klein, which showed that the firemen supposed to be on duty at that place and time were not there. On visiting Station No. 2 and posts, the firemen there, he removed the brides of the horses from the building, and walked to the corner of Prospect avenue and North Main street, where he pulled the alarm box No. 211. Before doing so he called up the waterworks and instructed them not to blow the whistle or increase the water pressure. Spring Brook station was instructed not to leave the station, and those at Station No. 1 were also informed of the nature of the alarm and told to take every safeguard and risk to the damage to the apparatus or the horses.

The new Seagrave auto chemical and hose wagon was the first piece of apparatus to arrive at the Charles Schultz driving. The truck driven by way of the horse drawn apparatus crossed Milwaukee street bridge. The Chief Klein was found standing near the box waiting for the apparatus from Station No. 2 to get in appearance.

Whether charges will be preferred against the firemen, or the men retained in service with the assurance that they will never forget the lesson taught them rests with Chief Klein. The commission will take no action in that matter unless charges are filed by the chief.

START CEMENT WORK ON RAILROAD BRIDGE

Start Filling Coffers Dams With Cement.—Workman Has Narrow Escape from Drowning.
Work at the upper railroad bridge, which the Cleary White Construction Company is rebuilding for the railroad, is being pushed with all possible speed and more laborers are being added in order to hurry the work of filling the coffer dams. Three coffer dams are being employed, two of them working at the bridge, filling one of the dams with cement, and the other driving the sheet piling preparatory to building the second and third coffer dams.

The work of pumping the water out of the first dam has been finished, and a force of carpenters is engaged in building the mould for the cement. When the coffer dams were first built, piles were driven into the river bed for a depth of ten feet and twelve feet of cement was put in and allowed to harden. Then what is called the coffering, for the pier. When the water had been pumped out of the building of the pier itself began. As only half of the bridge is being built at the present time, so as to allow traffic to pass over one side of the structure, the moulds have only been built up a short distance above the water line. The pier itself is slightly over forty-seven feet in length, and will be nine feet in width. This will continue to the top of the bridge, tapering slightly and the immense girders and cement slabs are to be placed on top of the solid cement foundation.

Part of the north coffer dam has been laid and it is expected that if the weather is favorable the mould will be filled up to the water line this afternoon so as to allow the pumps to draw out the water.

About twenty men under Assistant Superintendent William Schor are engaged in laying the sheet piling on the last dam. Two pile drivers are at work on the last dam. The men are anxious to start the cement work.

Work came to a standstill yesterday afternoon when one of the workmen, Martin Grading, slipped and fell into the river off the second coffer dam. The river is extremely swift as it rounds the piers and it was impossible for the man to swim back to the dam as his efforts to breast the current resulted in his being swept down stream towards the Fourth avenue bridge. The carpenters saved the man from further danger by throwing him a rope and dragging him back to safety.

PRIZE CORN RAISED BY MINNESOTA GIRL

In a Letter to Noyes Raessler, Miss Florence Stegner Tells Method She Employed.
Rock county boys entered in the Gazette corn contest will be interested in the experience of a Minnesota girl who took the honors as champion corn grower for the northern section in 1912. Miss Florence Stegner, of Sauk Centre, Minn., was the young lady who was so successful. In a letter to Noyes Raessler she tells something of the methods she employed and the results attained. It may be of service to the boys who are working for the Gazette prizes, and is given in full below.
Sauk Centre, Minn., May 12, 1913.
N. R. Raessler, Beloit, Wis.
Dear Sir:
Your letter of the 7th inst. received in regard to the prize of corn which I raised during 1912 and received first prize in the northern section. I plowed the land in the spring, requiring about four hours to plow, and the results attained. It may be of service to the boys who are working for the Gazette prizes, and is given in full below.
I planted my corn May 20th, the variety being Minnesota No. 13. I obtained my seed corn from the Extension Department, University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota. It was graded and tested by the Extension Division.
My corn grew very fast. I started to cultivate it June 6th, and cultivated it six times, up to the middle of July. I secured a yield of 97.3 bushels, the total expense of raising my crop being $10.44. The price was 35 cents a bushel, but I sold some for seed at $2 per bushel.
I enjoy working in the field, and think that the farm is the most interesting place in the world in which I live.
I would be pleased to correspond with your sister.
Very truly yours,
FLORENCE STEGNER.

LARGE AUDIENCES GREET WINNERS

Stock Company Continues to Please With Productions at The Myers Theatre—Present "Billy" Tonight.
Another large audience greeted the Winner Players last evening in their presentation of "Sapho," the celebrated Daudet classic made famous by Olga Nethersole. Miss Grassler as Sapho, LeGrand, "Sappho," added new admirers by her cleverness and charming personality. Arthur Howard as Jean Gauss, scored big, and Miss Avery and Adolph Winger pleased with their character interpretations.

MISS LOUISE GRASSLER IN "BILLY."

During the first act John D. Winger and Miss Haasman entertained with two pleasing vocal selections. The play was carefully and effectively staged.
The Winner Players will appear tonight in a sparkling and up-to-date farce comedy, entitled "Billy." This was used as a starring vehicle by Sydney Drew, and proved a great success at New York and Chicago where it had a profitable run of several months. A popular hero of the gridiron, Billy Hargrave, wins the victory in a closely contested game of football, but in doing so he has the misfortune to lose four front teeth. His superstitiousness regarding the artificial substitutes and their subsequent loss at a most crucial moment in the progress of his love affairs, lead to unusual difficulties. His efforts to retain the love of his sweetheart while keeping her in ignorance of his accident are most amusingly set forth. Mr. Howard as Alice Hargrave, Miss Lamereaux as Beatrice, and John D. Winger will be seen in a unique comedy role.

The commonwealth Governor McGovern presided and made a brief and appropriate address of welcome. President Van Hise expressed greetings to the university, and Hubert W. Wells, secretary of the City club of Philadelphia, responded. Mr. Wells said he hoped there would be initiated in Pennsylvania "some such magnificent association great educational institutions as was here built up and that they would be fitted to the same high level of democracy."

SOUND ADVICE.

While much that is said in lectures in class rooms of colleges and universities that do not take the same meaning when repeated outside the class room walls, still the statement of Dr. Simon Patton, head of the department of economics of the University of Pennsylvania, at Madison yesterday, is worth careful consideration. Dr. Patton said:

"The man with the auto is the man who should save. It is ridiculous for the wealthy classes to look down upon the poor and advise them to save their money. The poor should spend their money for better housing and better living conditions. Saving, like bearing children, is a lost art in the $2,500 to $5,000 a year class."

Dr. Simon Patton announced these heresies in a quiet voice and with a smile upon his face. He is head of the department of economics at the University of Pennsylvania and is in Madison for two weeks to deliver a series of lectures on "Economic Theory" at the university. "I was once asked," he said, "as saying that it was better to spend than to save, that it was better to live for the present than the future. I did not intend to be so startling. But I believe that it is better to round out each day and month and year as a unit rather than to starve the present for the future. It is better to spend one's money in getting happiness out of the present, than to live poorly for the sake of saving a future which may never be realized. The poor should spend what money they have for the purpose of getting better homes, better food and more pleasure. The rich should spend their money for bettering the conditions of their employees, especially women employees.

"The people who should be advised to save are the people who drive automobiles."

DECORATION DAY.

Once each year the citizens of the states north of the Mason and Dixon line commemorate the thirteenth of May in honor of the men who in the Sixties shouldered their guns that this country might be one and united, and marched to the front to fight the battles against their brethren of the South. Each year the day is especially designated as Memorial day by the governor of the various states in the North and the following is the proclamation of Governor Francis E. McGovern, issued yesterday at Madison:

"This is a year of inspiring historic recollections. It is the semi-centennial of the Emancipation proclamation, of the campaign about Vicksburg, of Gettysburg and Lookout Mountain. It is the centennial of Commodore Perry's brilliant victory over the British on Lake Erie. It is a year, therefore, when the ceremonies of Memorial day should be especially impressive and significant.

"In order that the sentiments appropriate to such a time may not fall of adequate expression, and in conformity with established custom, I, Francis E. McGovern, governor of Wisconsin, hereby designate Friday, May 30, A. D. 1913, as Memorial day, and I earnestly recommend that it be observed by suitable exercises in which all the people may join. Every public school should unite with patriotic societies and others in reviewing deeds of sacrifice and heroism and in impressing lessons of patriotism.

"While thus honoring the dead who sustained the nation's standards in time of war the beautiful custom of also reverencing the memory of departed relatives and friends who have died in time of peace should be continued; for, moral offerings dedicated to this sacred service reflect beauty into the lives of those who give them.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the capital in the City of Madison this twenty-first day of May in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirteen."

PESSIMISTIC VIEW.

The Christian Science Monitor takes a semi-pessimistic view of the business situation of the country. It says that although it is not always an agreeable experience to go through a readjustment process, or even reformation, the results usually more than pay for the trouble. This is the way business conditions, we suppose, should be viewed at present. For the past several years the commercial pace has been a rapid one. Prices of commodities have advanced to such an extent that even with higher wages the laboring man has had difficulty in making both ends meet. Railroads and industrial institutions have had all they could do to pay expenses of operation and dividends. In short there has been imperative need for a halt. A re-adjustment of affairs has been inevitable. During the period of restoration it is well to keep the desired end in view and not get too much discouraged over the vicissitudes encountered in the process.

There has been a marked and continued shrinkage in the business of the stock exchanges recently; coincident with declining prices. Last year's transactions were small enough as compared with previous years, but this year the volume of business on the New York, Boston and other exchanges in smaller than ever. Since the first of this month the shrinkage in the volume of business on the New York exchange amounts to 62 per cent as compared with the corresponding period last year. The same percentage of decrease is noted on the Boston exchange. Since the first of the year the falling off in volume in the New York market amounts to 40 per cent, while the shrinkage of business on the Boston exchange is 55 per cent. Total daily sales recently in the New York market have averaged below 200,000 shares, whereas in former years they have frequently averaged from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000. Seats on the New York exchange have not sold at so low a price in many years as at present. Several large brokerage firms have closed their branch offices in other cities and smaller ones have gone out of business entirely.

Now this is a doleful enough tale so far as it relates to the stock exchange business. The falling off in stock market transactions, however, should not be taken as an index of general business conditions. The higher cost of living has been the prime cause of the shrinkage. Another potent factor has been the legislation enacted for the purpose of discouraging speculation. Neither business nor the public, we think, will be injured by such enactments. On the contrary, the results eventually should be beneficial. There is considerable disparity in the prices of business conditions in various parts of the United States. There has been some recession, but bank clearings, railroad earnings, foreign commerce, steel production and other indices of trade show a large volume of business moving. If money were to become easier it would greatly help to remove the fear of future trouble which so many persist in entertaining. Bank reserves are too low, but there is hope that this condition will not last through the summer. An accumulation of funds is likely during the next few months if desired currency legislation is enacted, relief may come sooner than expected or in time, at least, for the moving of the crops next fall.

HOW THEY VIEW IT.

Former Chief of Police Appleby evidently hit the nail on the head when in his letter of resignation he stated that he could not properly perform the duties of his office with the present support and equipment given him by the city administration. The Beloit Free Press talks on the subject rather strongly and gives Mr. Appleby an endorsement. It will be remembered that Mr. Appleby was chief of police of Beloit for eight years before coming to Janesville as sheriff and consequently the Free Press knows whereof it speaks. It says:

"George M. Appleby has resigned his position as chief of police of Janesville because of the lack of support from the authorities and some citizens in trying to give the citizens a good police service. The council refuses to equip the department as it should and every time a police officer commences to enforce the laws and 'clean up' the city, a lot of people get after him. Some have been after Chief Appleby for a long time. The Beloit friends of Mr. Appleby believe that he tried to do his duty and in a large degree has done it."

But that is neither here nor there. Janesville now has a new chief—Eugene Ransom. With his coming into office there should be a change. If the lack of proper equipment and support is to blame for past mistakes in administering justice then this should be remedied at once. Janesville pays enough for excellent police protection but no man, not even Mr. Ransom, can assure it to the taxpayers and citizens unless he is given proper support and equipment. Now is the time to boost and boost hard and strong. If radical changes are needed let them be made and made quickly, but first of all equip the police department with proper tools for working.

FOREIGN TRADE HELPS.

One of the guarantees which the country enjoys against business depression and all the evils that follow therefrom is the large degree to which the foreign trade, and value of its foreign trade. Never, in the history of the United States, was the world's market for American products so wide and profitable as it is now.

The enormous increase in the demand for manufactures "made in the United States" is especially significant because it has taken place while the home market has been exceedingly unfavorable to the absorption of merchandise which might easily be pressed more vigorously for sale abroad if the nearby consumption were less satisfactory to producers. Many American manufacturers have been comparatively careless of distant customers because they have been fully occupied meeting the wants of patrons at home.

This foreign trade can be expanded rapidly when it is most needed. American competition with Old World rivals will become much more formidable when the country will be most benefited by such commercial development.

No doubt the London suffragists will seize on the suggestion contained in the German account of attempted murder by means of cholera germs liberated in misceant.

Liquor drinking, says Lillian Russell, robs women of their beauty. This, if nothing else, ought to induce women to give up the pernicious booze habit.

New York, with 5,332,000 population, should not find it difficult to support its police department in the manner to which it has become accustomed.

Evidently this year's June brides are to be well cared for. More than $16,000,000 worth of jewelry was imported last month.

It hasn't been decided yet whether corn or rye shall be grown on New York city's farm for inebriates.

CAPUR-MOMENT

The Good Old Times. Sez Lemuel Hicks, sez he to me. The times ain't like what they used to be.

When a feller could go with a ten-cent piece and get enough bacon for to grease The pancake griddle all nice and neat And then to have a good chunk left to eat. Then butter was 15 cents a pound. And we always had enough to go round. A feller could go with a dollar bill And a whole blamed grocery order fill. But nowadays for a five banknote A feller can't get more'n he kin tote Right home in the pocket of his overcoat. Beats all how fur a feller could go. On a dollar back forty years or so. But prices are gittin' so gold dum high We'll all eat hay like a hoss bime by.

Then good old days we will see no more. When a man with a dollar could buy out a store. But there is one thing that we must allow. There wasn't so many dollars as there are right now. Mr. Binks and the Doghouse.

Mr. Binks is the sort of a man who likes to have something waiting for him and so when he got the carpenter to come to build a doghouse for Queenie he was—erectly happy. It was first necessary to find the proper place in the back yard for the doghouse. A place where it would not be too sunny and not too shady. Mr. Binks and the carpenter spent one day picking out the site. Then they drew the plans. It was not to be anything fancy, but a simple affair. Only a $3 dog in her palmist days and her palmist had long since passed. Queenie didn't want a doghouse any more than she wanted another tail. A doghouse was miles beyond her station in life, but Mr. Binks wanted it, and Mr. Binks was the grand exalted ruler of that particular patch of ground. Mr. Binks really didn't want the doghouse as much as he wanted something for his carpenter, pattering around. Mr. Binks had kept Mrs. Binks cleaning up after carpenters for thirty years. The plans were finally drawn and the lumber was ordered. Mr. Binks went to the lumber yard and the carpenter. The lumber cost $9, the paint $1 and the hardware $1. The carpenter suggested that Mr. Binks might make the job a little more expensive by calling in the steamfitters and having steam heat piped from the residence to the doghouse. Mr. Binks could do this for $1. Queenie was only a $3 dog, but it was a good plan. Mr. Binks would think it over.

Mr. Binks sat on the back steps five days watching the carpenter build the doghouse. In order to make it large enough to fit it around Queenie. After it was all inclosed and painted they found that they had forgotten to make a door and Queenie was inside. The doghouse had to be torn down and rebuilt. It was decided after an afternoon's debate to hold Queenie down in front of the doghouse and then mark out the exact size of the door that would hold Queenie down. While the carpenter was holding Queenie down she grew vish and bit the carpenter through the thumb, after which the carpenter had to go to the hospital for two weeks. Mr. Binks called another carpenter and had the job finished in three days. Mr. Binks' expense for the doghouse was as follows:

Lumber	$ 9.00
Paint	1.00
Hardware	1.00
First carpenter's time	30.00
Hospital bill	114.58
Second carpenter's time	9.00
Total	$164.58

"It is some expensive," commented Mr. Binks, "but I had the time of my life. I bossed those two men for thirteen days."

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

KEEP STEP.

After all, we are soldiers. But we are soldiers of life, not of death.

We are soldiers to help each other, not destroy each other—to build, not tear down.

We are soldiers of peace, not of war. Yet we must fight—fight against ignorance, fight against laziness, fight against inefficiency, fight against special interests that put themselves before the public weal.

The first requisite of soldiers is to keep step. They must learn to march and to march together.

Individualism finds its highest expression in co-operation. Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching—marching where? To a better civilization.

We keep step with others who are going in that direction—keep step with progress, keep step with man.

We are an army with banners. On these standards are blazoned mottoes: "Efficiency," "Elimination of Waste," "Scientific Farming," "Conservation," "Organized Industry," "Up to date Methods."

One man makes a shoe tongue, another an upper, a third cuts the tops, a fourth the sole, a fifth the heel, another stitches, and so on till they make a perfect shoe. Each knows his work, goes at full speed and makes no false moves. Thus they work in perfect harmony.

They keep step. One plays the cornet, another the trombone, a third the clarinet, a fourth the violin, another the viol, and still another the drum. Each does his part in perfect time and tune with the others.

The result is music, and all because they keep step.

One gathers the news, another edits, a third writes editorials, a fourth base-ball, another solicits advertising, another looks after the circulation, others run the type setting machines and the presses. The output is the newspaper. The men who make it keep step.

It is so all through our life. Each has his special work, his place in the line, but he keeps step with the others. Thus the armies of industry march forward.

And— The man who loses, step must fall out of the ranks.

MILLION PIECES IN A TABLE

Inlaid Work of Joplin Carpenter is Unusual Work of Art—One Year Required to Make It.

Joplin, Mo.—A table made up of 1,000,000 pieces of wood, inlaid on a solid foundation of white pine, which required one year for the manufacture, S. P. Wood, of 1705 Jackson avenue, to construct, and which drew a blue ribbon at the Interstate exposition this fall, will probably be sent to the Panama exposition in 1915 for further conquests.

More than a score of native and foreign woods went into its make-up, the entire outside surface being a design colored by bits of varicolored woods, some of which were not more than one-sixteenth of an inch in dimension. It has been estimated that at least 1,000,000 pieces were required for the entire table. This large number is accounted for by the fact that two blocks on the top were inlaid with sawdust, made when other blocks were formed. Several blocks in the top, which caused any amount of speculation as to the kind of wood used, were made of shavings of many of the blocks. Wood never took a lesson in inlaid work.

He has been a carpenter all his life and interested in the work, but did not study for preparation. The large table was in course of construction for ten months at odd moments. All of the outside surface was inlaid, no piece of wood being duplicated. Another small table, containing a specimen box for the ores of the district, made by him, is also an interesting curio. On the front is a perfect picture of a canoe being propelled by a man. All of the colors are natural woods, the man's fingers being each a separate piece. Either the large table or another one to be begun in the near future will be sent to the big exposition.

Wood has been offered $300 for the small table, but refused this price. The fact that so many foreign woods went into its makeup makes it valuable.

RELIGIOUS HOAX IN INDIA

People Drink From Stagnant Pool Scented With Stolen Perfume and Story Spreads of Spring.

Calcutta.—One of the most extraordinary religious hoaxes ever recorded even in India has just occurred in the northern part of Calcutta.

A pool of stagnant water formed from the accumulation of sewage from roadside drains suddenly began, according to the local inhabitants, to emit a sweet perfume which had a lovely lemon flavor. Many people came, smelt, and were conquered, and the rumor spread that the pool was holy and that a new goddess would soon rise from its waters to redeem the world.

The pool became a place of pilgrimage. Diseased people bathed in it and drank of it, and those of uneasy conscience washed away their sins in it. The water was carried away in jugs and bottles and a brisk trade sprang up under the aegis of an astute young Bengalee in selling the "holy water" in all parts of the city at as much as $1.50 a bottle.

News of the holy perfume came to the ears of Bose & Co., scent manufacturers, who sent a connoisseur to investigate. His nose immediately provided him with a clue to the mysterious disappearance of several cases of essential oils belonging to the firm. The police found that several broken bottles of the oils had been thrown into the pool. This was the explanation of the holy smell.

The young Bengalee and a carter, suspected of having stolen the oils, were arrested.

HE DEARLY LOVES HIS PIPE

Man Faces Death at Atlantic City to Save Another, Then Rushes Home to Care for Meerschaum.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Smoking his first meerschaum pipe the other day on the boardwalk, Joseph McKee, twenty years old, heard bathers cry for help. Far out in the waves John Fredericks was struggling. Without even taking off his coat, McKee vaulted the rail, ran into the breakers and swam to Fredericks.

The latter man sank, but McKee dived, brought him up unconscious and fought his way to the beach. Paying no attention to the applauding crowd the rescuer helped to resuscitate Fredericks.

"Has he held onto his pipe all the time?" asked a new arrival, on beholding McKee.

Then for the first time McKee knew he had kept his beloved meerschaum gripped between his teeth. Taking it from his mouth he anxiously asked a bystander, "Do you think the salt water will spoil the color?" It took me all summer to color it."

Fredericks was breathing well by that time. McKee, who had not thought of his wet clothes, ran to his home to dry and polish his pipe.

JANESVILLE'S CLAIM WILL BE PRESENTED

PLANS FOR COMMITTEE TO APPEAR BEFORE LEGISLATURE BEING DISCUSSED.

CITY FULLY EXPLOITED

Advantages of Locating State Fair Here Will Be Explained From Every Angle.

Janesville boosters are not one whit discouraged over the reported statement in various papers in the state that the legislative investigating committee has decided to allow the fair to remain in Milwaukee. The fact that Chairman White designated Thursday morning, May 29th as the day and hour for a further hearing, shows that the decision has not been reached and Janesville still has a fighting chance to secure the location.

To Present Claims.

It is now planned that every line of activity in Janesville be represented by the committee which will appear before the legislative committee. The Janesville Park Association, The Commercial Club, the Twenty Five Thousand Club, the Commercial and Janesville traction company and the city officials. Each special interest will be designated a certain part of the program and then the whole question summed up in conclusion by one speaker in a forcible manner.

Dispute Statements.

George S. Parker was in Milwaukee on Tuesday and attended the hearing given the Milwaukee advocates of retaining the fair there. He listened to many of the gross statements that were made by the various speakers and Janesville will be ready to dispute some of them in a most convincing manner next Thursday. It was Assemblyman Hoyt, of Milwaukee, not a member of the committee who made the statement that the committee had decided not to move the fair from Milwaukee, that was given such publicity. The committee themselves have made no statements.

Consider Janesville.

It is known however that Janesville is being seriously considered. Three members of the legislative committee have expressed themselves as more than pleased with what this city has to offer and they are known to be radically opposed to the fair remaining in Milwaukee. Three of the committee favor Milwaukee but think favorably of Janesville so that if the fair is to be moved Janesville stands the most excellent chance of securing the location.

Booster Parade.

It has been suggested that it might be possible to organize a regular marching band, headed by a band, to parade Madison on Thursday. The show Janesville is in earnest in its fight to secure the fair site. This however will doubtless be considered seriously owing to the expense of the undertaking and the committee many citizens, not down for speech at the hearing, will attend the meeting to show their interest in the matter.

Madison Dispatch.

Madison, Wis., May 22.—Next week the committee investigating the state fair sites will go to Janesville to look over the Minnesota fair grounds. Senator M. E. White, chairman of the committee, announced today that the members of the committee would meet in St. Paul next Monday. Senator Carpenter was attempting today to have the committee arrange to visit the fair grounds of Des Moines, Ia., and at Springfield, Ill.

Carpenter's Plan.

"I desire to have the members of the committee see how the people of Springfield and Des Moines, not large cities, take care of a state fair crowd," said Assemblyman Carpenter. "I am sure that if the committee will visit these other cities they will be convinced that the fair can be well handled outside of Milwaukee."

State Exhibition.

Before the fair committee concludes its interests in the state, it is expected to hold during the fall in connection with the agricultural college of the university. This exhibition would take the place of the state fair and special stands could be laid on agricultural features.

JANESVILLE GOODS TO BE ADVERTISED WITH A BIG PARADE

E. T. Fish, Chairman of Committee, Will Have Charge of Manufacturers' Showing at U. C. Convention.

It is the plan of the committee of the Twenty-Five Thousand Club in charge of the industrial parade which will be held in connection with the procession of the delegates to the U. C. convention, the first week in June, to have the manufacturing institutions in Janesville represented with as elaborate a showing as possible.

At a recent meeting of the committee, E. T. Fish was named chairman and superintendent of the industrial section of the parade. The other members of the committee are: A. E. Bingham, Frank P. Starr, J. A. Dent, W. H. Dougherty and C. J. McKelvie. A canvass of the various factories with the view to securing their entries and co-operation was begun by the committee this afternoon.

Fish has had charges of similar demonstrations in previous years and citizens generally feel certain that the showing will be a very successful one. Manufacturers will at once realize the importance of two values of the theme as an advertising proposition and will vie with one another to make the most attractive and elaborate showing.

There will be 1,500 or 2,000 commercial travelers in the line of march in this parade which will be held on Friday afternoon, June 6, at four o'clock. These men will represent every section of the state and a valuable display of the products of Janesville-made goods will mean a telling advertisement for the city and local factory men will undoubtedly be quick to see the advantage of it.

"It's a big thing in the booster line," said Mr. Fish this morning. "We want every manufacturing enterprise in the city, and there is a large number of them, to enter into the spirit of the thing and show the visitors from other Wisconsin cities what Janesville can do. It may involve a little time and money but the local industries will be repaid a thousand times over by the publicity received."

The excellent displays which the factories have made at the made-in-Janesville week exposition at the auditorium each fall, has been indicative of the interest which the Janesville men have in such affairs and the present opportunity is equally as valuable.

It is proper that this part of the city entertainment for the delegates could be made the most successful of the Twenty-Five Thousand Club as this organization, although just organized, has already done much to advertise the city in a favorable light.

The members of the club are anxious to attract new industries to the city and by showing what we already have, further interest and inspiration may be aroused both at home and abroad.

WILL OF HARRIET HORNE IS CONTESTED IN COURT

Appar Taken from Order of County Court Admitting Testament to Probate—$2500 Involved.

Claiming that the will of the late Harriet Horne, second wife of the late Dr. William Horne, was made by her at a time when she was incompetent to transact such business, heirs to the estate which is valued at some $2,500 presented their case before Judge Grimm in the circuit court this afternoon. Action was an appeal from the order of the county court, admitting the will to probate. The entire afternoon was taken up with the presentation of testimony and arguments of counsel on one or more motions connected with the suit.

A divorce was granted by Judge Grimm to Nellie Blaisdel from Herbert Blaisdel, both of Edgerton, on the ground of non-support.

FREIGHT CAR DERAILED ON SOUTH-RIVER STREET

Last evening at a few minutes after six o'clock a large freight car was derailed on South River street just opposite the warehouse of the Janesville Barb Wire Company. The car was being pushed by a switch engine because of a tight gauge. The wheels on one side of the car sunk into the ground to the journal boxes. The switch engine, which was pushing the car, was stopped and the car was pulled out of the ditch. The freight car was derailed twice. Two locomotives were derailed there.

The birthday cakes, adorned with candles, were prepared for them at the Tea Bell. Toasts, songs and a good time generally was indulged in by these players who have the happy faculty of making their home wherever they are billed.

Blessing Should Have Counted.

There is a French story of an old woman who, on seeing the carriage of the young King Louis XIII. passing on its way from church, where the marriage had just taken place, took off her shoe and throwing it at the coach, cried out: "Tis all I have, your majesty, but may the blessing of God go with it."

CHIEF OF POLICE RANSOM QUALIFIES

Ehds And Oath of Successor to George M. Appleby Accepted at Special Council Meeting.

Ensign H. Ransom was duly qualified as chief of police of Janesville this morning when the city council, at a special meeting, accepted his bond and oath of office. He will be provided with a star bearing the lettering "Chief of Police" as soon as the council orders one. The city possesses one with the inscription "City Marshal," but as the official title of the office was changed to the more metropolitan "Chief of Police" some time ago the old badge is both inaccurate and archaic. Chief Ransom has not as yet been called upon to do any official acts. The complaints against the men arraigned for drunkenness this morning were signed by Police Captain John Brown as the chief had not then qualified.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE HAIR DRESSER.

(By Howard L. Rana.)

THE hair dresser is an expensive expert who can tell at first sight whether the owner of a head of inherited hair needs a head of dandruff extract or will be obliged to invest $22 in a sinusoid switch. As a rule, she recommends the switch and guarantees that it will not fade in the ad interim or any other spot.

Hair dressers are most generally frequented by women who are not able to do up their own hair or build the kitchen fire for tired husbands. There is a great difference in the texture and tractability of hair. Some people had only hair handed down to them in early youth without doing anything to deserve it, while others have to wrap their hair around the torrid legs of a curling iron six times a day in order to avoid looking like an Indian squaw.

It is the business of the hair dresser to take an assortment of natural hair which has gotten into the habit of climbing out onto somebody's neck or sticking straight up in a defiant men and weave it into a close resemblance to an inverted clothes-basket. This is accomplished by rolling the hair into a tight wad and then spreading the wad out as far as it will reach. Sometimes it does not reach far enough and has to be reinforced with other people's hair which is several "tints" out of tune with the landscape.

The ordinary hair salon needs dressing oftener than twice a week, and if a hair dresser is sure of two regular customers a week she is never called upon to pay her board in advance. Every once in a while some hair dresser thinks up a new kind of coiffure, which is a cross between the Psyche knot and the spit curl, and sell it at a price which causes every husband in the community to wish that his wife was as bald as an egg.

Most women do their own hair dressing by curling up over a lavatory in the form of a letter S and then pumping their hair in the back with a palm leaf fan. This is a laborious process, but is looked upon with pleasure feelings by close-fisted husbands.

"I've a good mind to go and jump into the river," said N. Peck, at the end of a little domestic discussion, as he picked up his hat and started out.

STORIES OF POLICE GRAFT IN 'FRISCO PUT NEW YORK DISCLOSURES TO SHAME

From the stories recently told by three bunco men of San Francisco to District Attorney Fickert of that city, it appears that the police detectives of the coast metropolis have carried on a system of graft that would put the recent New York disclosures to shame, and that every crook operating in San Francisco has first to make terms with the detectives.

A grand jury investigation has been started to probe the charges. The principals in the investigation, besides the bunco men, are Capt. Eugene R. Wall, Arthur F. MacPhee, Charles Taylor and Frank Esola, all city detectives. They deny the charges and say they never received any of the large sums of money which the bunco men declare were paid for protection.

Only Needed Another.

I was walking on the beach last Sunday with my nephew, and I told him that I would give him a dollar if he could find two pebbles exactly alike. Full of glee, John began searching. By and by he came running to me very much excited, and said: "Oh, uncle, I've found one of them."—Exchange

DINNER STORIES

A poetical old shopkeeper was always doing kind things and saying lovely ones. One spring he was having his shop repainted. He told the painter to leave a certain corner untouched for the time being; he explained that the young people at that season did all their courting there, and he didn't want them to get smudged. "But," objected the painter, "these young folks would be fools not to know the smell of fresh paint." "Young fellow," said the old shopkeeper, "you've never had a girl that's plain. If you had, you'd know that he can't see it."

Reward.

The less you require looking after the more able you are to stand alone and complete your tasks; the greater your reward. Then if you cannot only do your work, but direct intelligently and effectively the efforts of others, your reward is in exact ratio, and the more people you direct, and the higher the intelligence you can rightly lend, the more valuable is your life.—Elbert Hubbard.

Voices.

He was eager to kiss her. And she? She heard two voices speaking, and one was the voice of the mother that bore her. "Don't!" it said. But the other, which was the voice of all her mothers since Eve, said: "Yes." And the majority "Yes."—Pack.

HUSBAND TIRED OF SEEING HER SUFFER

Procured Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which made His Wife a Well Woman.

Middletown, Pa.—"I had headache, backache and such awful bearing down pains that I could not be on my feet at times and I had organic inflammation so badly that I was not able to do my work. I could not get a good meal for my husband and one child. My neighbors said they thought my suffering was terrible. "My husband got tired of seeing me suffer and one night went to the drug store and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me I must take it. I can't tell you all I suffered and I can't tell you all that your medicine has done for me. I was greatly benefited from the first and it has made me a well woman. I can do all my housework and even helped some of my friends as well. I think it is a wonderful help to all suffering women. I have got several to take it after seeing what it has done for me."—Mrs. Emma Espenshade, 219 East Main St., Middletown, Pa.

The Pinkham record is a proud and honorable one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By HARRY KING TOOTLE

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

CHAPTER VII.

Gloria plunged into the work of making over Locust Lawn according to her own ideas with her usual enthusiasm. Accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert, she haunted the architect's office, carrying with her magazines containing pictures and descriptions of beautiful homes. When the plans for the alterations were finally approved, David Kerr learned with a sigh of relief that the changes could be made without driving him from the shelter of his own roof.

At the same time Gloria was planning for the changes in the country place, she and Mrs. Gilbert were also busy preparing for the ball which would serve as her formal introduction to Belmont society. Her time was so engaged that she thought the suggestion of her hostess as excellent one when Mrs. Gilbert said that it might be better not to become tangled up with too many social engagements at a time when it was more vital to see that the Locust Lawn alterations were properly under way. The girl was aware, from what she had heard her father and others say, that things were dull at present, and she did not wish to spur them into a premature activity. When the ball was given for her it would be time enough to begin.

Mrs. Gilbert was not letting things drift, although the daughter of David Kerr was not aware of it. Every one in Belmont knew what Gloria did not: That she was about to make a great effort to secure recognition. Belmont was not in a receptive mood. Its first thought was that she was the child of a shrewd political trickster who had fattened at the expense of the towns. The offspring of the leopard should not hope to be without spots.

Mrs. Gilbert was clever enough to have girls to luncheon whom she thought might become interested in Gloria. They came, and in the majority of cases surprised Gloria by their charming manners and their beautiful clothes. Her court was to be even more brilliant than she had dreamed. The girls were invited one at a time, to give both Gloria and the visitor the opportunity of becoming well acquainted.

The luncheon guests came to call afterward, but by a strange mischance it was always when Gloria was not at home. She would go to the architect's office with Mrs. Gilbert, and would find on her return that several cards had been left for her. The ball was so near that she made no attempt to pay any calls herself. She was too busy.

Although railing at the fate which took him away most of the time, the first three weeks after Gloria's removal to town were spent by Judge Gilbert in Chicago. Occasionally he ran over for a day, but even then his wife and their guest saw little of him. This would have made their evenings hang heavy on their hands had it not been for Joe Wright. He got into the habit of dropping in after dinner every evening and several times a week Mrs. Gilbert had him to dine with them. Late in the afternoon he and Gloria often drove together, the season of the year keeping them most of the time on the city streets. Once he drove with her to Locust Lawn, but as it was late when they reached there he did not get out, sitting in the runabout while Gloria ran into the house for a few minutes.

Neither Wright nor Gloria ever made an effort to direct the conversation into the intimate channel it had taken the night they first had met in Belmont. One might almost have thought they had agreed to consider themselves merely good friends, so impersonal were they in what they said. For this there was a reason; rather, there were two reasons, his and hers.

Wright was keeping a firm grip on himself because he knew the truth and was afraid Gloria was self-possessed and would not have permitted him to pass the border of friendship, had he dared, because she wished to know Belmont well. Even a hint of an entangling alliance would prove a hindrance. Thus it was that each was happy in the other's company. And if perchance they looked the sentiment that each had inwardly resolved not to breathe, they were happier still in the thought that some day their dreams would come true.

The paper was occasioning Wright no great anxiety. Somewhat to his surprise the advertising revenue was showing most gratifying gains caused by the increase of local business. The Banner had more advertising, but the new owner of the afternoon paper had no cause to complain. Even his advertising manager could not explain it. Main street merchants who had been out of the paper for years began to send in copy without solicitation. This made the head of the advertising department think that the millennium was about due. The real reason, unknown to every one except the merchants receiving the message, was that Dave Kerr had sent out the tip for them to throw some of their patronage to the News.

This was a shrewd move on the part of Kerr. He wanted Wright to have such a volume of business that if he should order all the advertising he could influence cut off, the paper would be instantly crippled. If the News had not much business, then anything Kerr might cause to be dropped out would only show that his power was slight. If he had to strike a blow he wanted it to be with a sledge hammer.

Another important consideration which led him to take this step was that the merchants might believe, and be tipped off in a manner which would be most apt to make them jump to that conclusion, that he was himself interested in the News. This would tend to minimize Wright's influence if he should attempt a crusade, since the public would wink and say: "It's all a bluff, old man Kerr himself is interested in the paper." The boss even calculated that this would be strengthened by the frequency with which Wright was seen in his daughter's company. "He was not looking for trouble, he never welcomed it, but he sought always to be prepared when it came."

During her first weeks at Mrs. Gilbert's Gloria saw little of her father. She had at first frequently dropped in at his office, but he had intimated that it was no place for her. Sometimes she would be at Locust Lawn when Tom brought him home in the afternoon. When Judge Gilbert was home from Chicago once he dined with them. Every day, however, she talked to him for some time over the telephone. He always seemed interested, apologized for not seeing her more, and let her rattle on until she had quite exhausted the news of the day. Occasionally he complained to her of his rheumatism—no one had ever heard him speak of it before—and she would beg him to take good care of himself, since it was with him that she wished to dance first at her ball.

There was one girl whom Mrs. Gilbert sought as a friend for Gloria. She mentioned it to her husband the first day their guest arrived, and he suggested that she be invited to lunch the next day. Accordingly Mrs. Gilbert telephoned Miss Laura Piper and asked her. For the following day, however, Miss Piper had an engagement. When several other days were mentioned she had engagements for those also. Could she have been made to accept Gloria, the task of conquering Belmont would instantly become less arduous. Her father was head of the great Piper Mining company, and her family was looked upon as one of the most exclusive in the whole state. If Laura Piper would, she could make it extremely pleasant for Gloria. But Laura Piper had her own way and her family's ideas about the Kerr breed, and no matter how nice Gloria might be, she was still her father's daughter.

Mrs. Gilbert reported her lack of success to her husband on his return from his first trip to Chicago, and he mentioned it, almost casually, to David Kerr when they met the next day. The boss inquired the particulars, but made no comment. That he was not unkind of the episode developed two days later when the Piper Coal company received a complaint from the secretary of the school board that there was an undue quantity of slate in the last coal furnished the public schools. While worrying with this, the company's legal department sent word to the president that the city solicitor had just notified the company that one of the important spurs into an uptown coal yard crossed a street without authority, of law.

Old man Piper swore by all the gods in mythology that it was the worst outrage ever perpetrated upon him in all his business life. He had but a day or two to catch his breath before Mrs. Gilbert telephoned at the dinner hour asking Laura to luncheon the next day. The whole thing dived on him when Laura flounced back from the telephone and announced petulantly that she would not meet that odious Gloria Kerr. He said nothing until after dinner, then calling Laura aside he ordered her to telephone Mrs. Gilbert and withdraw her refusal. His pocket-book having been hit, Piper was willing to make some sacrifice to determine the reason and what he was to expect in the way of further attack. He kept his mouth closed, and waited.

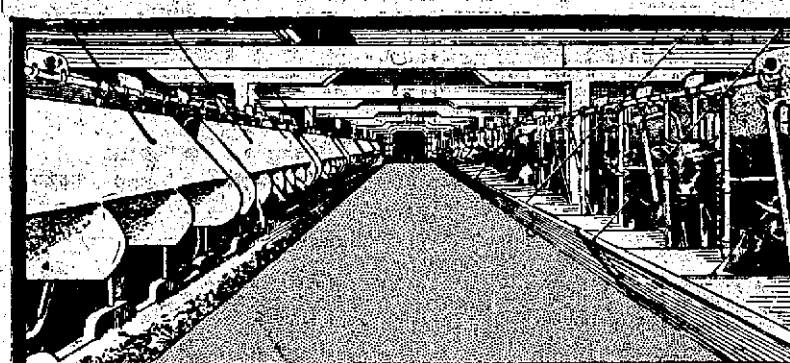

Laura returned from the luncheon with a favorable opinion of Gloria, but she could not forget her parentage. Upon being questioned she told her father she did not care to put Gloria on her visiting list.

"Suppose I have some one to visit me who asks, 'Who is that girl you introduced me to?' complained Laura. And I'll have to say: 'That's Gloria Kerr, the boss's daughter.' Then what will the visiting girl think of Belmont society, and what will she think of me? I'm sure I would be surprised if I went to visit anyone and they introduced me to the son or daughter of a man like Kerr."

"Laura," answered her father, "I think you'd better go down to New York for a couple of months." And two days later Laura went, after having called when Gloria was not at home. She never knew why her father urged her to go.

Piper felt it would be cheaper to pay the expense of a New York trip than to have his company stand the continuous annoyance by which it could be worried, if what he suspected was true. When he inquired about coal for the school board the complaint department reported that the secretary had been mollified but hoped it would not happen again. As for the city solicitor, the legal department refrained from asking anything about the track across the street and that official never wrote again.

Old man Piper kept his mouth shut, but he knew he had been taught a lesson.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams

BY WALT MASON

The early fly's the one to swat. It comes before the weather's hot, and sits around and flies its legs, and lays at least ten million eggs, and every egg will bring a fly to drive us crazy by and by. Oh, every fly that skips our swatters will have five million sons and daughters, and countless first and second cousins.

THE EARLY FLY. And ants and uncles, scores of dozens, and fifty-seven billion nieces, and knock the blamed thing all to pieces. And every niece and every ant—unless we swat them so they can't—will lay enough dodged eggs to fill up ten five-gallon kegs, and all these eggs, one summer later, will bring forth twenty million flies. And thus it goes, an endless chain, so all our swatting is in vain unless we do that swatting, soon, in Maytime, and in early June. So, men and brothers, let us rise, give up our loins and swat the flies! And sisters, leave your cozy hovers where you have wasted golden hours, with arid in your souls and eyes, roll up your sleeves and swat the flies!

Time Is Sometimes Kind. Father Time is not always a harsh parent, and though he carries for none of his children, often lays his hand lightly upon those who have used him well, making them old men and women inexorably enough, but leaving their hearts and spirits young and in full vigor. With such people the gray head is, but the impression of the old fellow's hand in giving them his blessing, and every wrinkle but a notch in the quiet calendar of a well-spent life. From Barnaby Rudge.

Money and Prosperity. Some of the most flourishing countries in the world, such as the United States, Canada, Argentina, Australia and France, have a large supply of money in proportion to their population, but so have poor Paraguay and Spain. On the other hand the per capita supply of money is notably small in Germany, Chile and Sweden, which are also prosperous and progressive. Argentina leads the world in the stock of money relative to the number of inhabitants.

A Perfectly Awful Cigar. "I bought a cigar named after you, today," said the low comedian, who looked rather pale. "Really?" smiled the prima donna. "I wasn't aware I had so great an honor thrust upon me." "Honor! Suffering smokers!" gasped the comedian; "but I must not say more; rest assured, little one, your secret is safe with me!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Don't Feed Up Your Profits This Year Into Horses or Mules

Now is the time to settle the question of whether you are going to feed up about one-fourth of your profits on horses or mules. Statistics show that it takes that much to keep them. They cost every day but they average only about 100 full days' work—the other 255 days you have to feed them all for nothing. That's why so many men are changing to Avery Tractors. A tractor costs nothing when not working. And even when working it costs less than to feed horses. Records kept by men who have replaced their horses with Avery Tractors and Plovers show a saving of over half the expense of horse plowing and big saving in expense on other farm work. Also easier on the men and bigger crops by doing the work quick at the right time. Avery Tractors and Plovers make Power Farming.

WIRED-FREQUENTER OF NEW YORK ZOO WORSHIPS COBRA, HORRIBLE REPTILE

Kneeling before cobra in New York Zoo.

One of the greatest mysteries of the New York Zoological Park is the identity of a middle aged man who seems to worship the deadly king cobra, which is on exhibition in the little house. The man is a frequent visitor to the park, selecting the pay days when there are very few visitors. Upon entering the reptile house, he will make for the glass-fronted cage where the king cobra, said to be the most poisonous snake in the world, is on exhibition and as shown in the photograph, bow down in an attitude of prayer before the deadly reptile. He refuses to reveal his identity.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

"NOTHING TOO MUCH"

There is nothing more certain about the tastes and desires of the average human being than their uncertainty. Pickeness is the eternal law of human desire. Satiety spoils more happiness than any other cause.

Now it doesn't take a philosopher to appreciate these facts. You know them and I know them. Every grown man or woman has been taught them many times by his or her own experience. Why then, don't more of us live by them? Why don't we learn to regulate our pleasures with a view to prolonging them; in other words why aren't we more careful not to get tired of the things we enjoy?

When I was in college I once learned a new game of cards just a few days before the semester examinations. It was a very interesting game and my room-mate and I were fascinated by it and devoted every spare moment to it. But as anyone who has ever prepared for an important examination can imagine, those spare moments were few. Through the long dull hours of grinding we looked forward to a half hour before bedtime in which we could play a few hands of our new game. And each time we rose reluctantly from the card table we would say defiantly, "Well, the day after examinations are over we will play all day long if we want to."

At last examinations were really over and we carried out our threat. All one rainy day and half the next we played and played and played. Something else claimed our attention the second afternoon, but after dinner that evening we took up the cards for our daily half hour and behold, the chair had gone!

We didn't play that game again for weeks and we never cared so much for it again. Half its charm had been the fact that circumstances kept us from getting too much of it. Once we ran it into the ground the spell was broken.

I heard a business woman enthusiastically praise a certain delightful little luncheon place which she had discovered and she therefore surprised when I saw her coming out of another restaurant one noon.

"How happens it that you didn't go to your favorite place?" I asked.

"Oh, I don't go there every day," she explained, "I like it too well to let myself get tired of it."

Wisdom like that is rare. Most of us spoil half our pleasures by running them into the ground. They say that if a horse gets at the food bin he will eat until he kills himself. Human beings don't often do that, but when the feed bin of any pleasure is left open to them, they frequently eat until they kill their desire for it.

"Nothing too much" was the motto of the most balanced and happiest nation the world ever knew. Self-restraint even in the matter of harmless pleasures is always its own reward.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am in love with a girl of sixteen and have been doing with her for six months. I have been true to her all the time. I met her with a fellow the other night. Is it best to continue? (2) What is good for pimples? (3) What is good to clean the hair? (4) I am a boy of sixteen and I am too young to be married and I presume you are too young to marry and unable to support a wife. Don't be a danger to the world. (5) Plenty of baths and Epsom salt. Eat no pastry, rich gravies or candies and eat plenty of vegetables and fruits. (6) Rub with inside of banana skin.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of nearly nineteen years of age and very much in love with a boy a little over nineteen, who says I am his only love. He is very good and considers me a dear and although he tells me I'm the only one he loves, I can't help but think he loves another. I am of a jealous disposition. This young girl is quite good looking and seems to have nice ways and sweet disposition. But I don't think she has any nicer disposition than mine, as everyone says I have such a sweet one. How can I stop being jealous?

UNHAPPY ONE.

Try to think and do only the things that will make him happy and by cultivating selfishness you may in time overcome your jealousy. Remember, my dear, that every jealous thought is an insult to your beloved and that it lowers you in his worthiness of his love. You are undoubtedly as sweet and lovable as any other girl and if you keep that way you need never fear that he will care for anybody else more than he cares for you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please explain when morning and evening come to end. (2) Does the rain, as usual, come from the clouds or from some direction from which the wind blows? (3) From which direction does most of the rains come?

(1) Morning begins with sunrise and ends at midday. Evening begins at 6 p. m. and ends at midnight. (2) and (3) You'll have to ask the weatherman or a farmer to tell you, these two questions, my friend.

QUESTION BOX.

(1) If your hair is too oily, rub the following mixture on scalp daily: 2 oz. alcohol, 2 oz. witch hazel, 14 grains resorcin.

If the hair is stiff and dry, and unmanageable, apply a little vaseline or castor oil to the scalp every day. Give it a shampoo every two or three weeks with a couple of eggs well beaten and rubbed into the head, then rinse well in several warm (not hot) waters. (2) Here are appliances in the stores for this purpose: (3) Wide enough so you can step comfortably. (4) The dining room should be cheerful. Green is favored just now, with a cream ceiling, but brighter colors would be more suitable in a family dining room. (5) It would be better for him to take her home, but not in very good taste for her to take any other ride with him. (6) Most men do not care for a color, though they seem to like yellow hair pretty well.

domestic science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

When we have health we find the world a beautiful place to live, either out of doors or in our homes. When we have discovered the laws of nature and are all there is nothing anywhere that looks good or beautiful to us.

Hygiene is important because it teaches us how to care for the body. Just now so much of this is taught in the schools that I should like to follow up during the summer with a few articles along this line of to-day's subject. Children and grown people cannot just be taught hygiene, which is really the care of the body and health, but they must live it. Summer with everything in nature calling everyone out of doors over the hills and across the fields is a fine time to put many of these things into practice and be well—not one sick day. Take up your mind to that, live for that and everyone will be surprised at the great gain to themselves in health and happiness during the summer months.

If you are ill make a record of the sickness and see whether it could have been prevented. No child enjoys the stomachache, or toothache, or headache. Mother with the proper interest in her child's health for the present and future can, with a little care, prevent many of these ailments.

1—Do not swallow food without a reasonable amount of chewing. Use no ice water nor any iced drinks at meals.

2—Drink pure water between meals. Frequently adding fruit juices to it. Drink two glasses when rising in the morning and the same when retiring. Drink water slowly in between times when thirsty. Nature governs thirst according to the food we eat.

3—Eat whole wheat flour products. These are good for the body and the mind. Good food will seldom be taken in excess of bodily strength or need.

4—Sleep next to an open window or outdoors; sleep seven or eight hours; insist on pure air at all times; never remain in a close apartment; breathe deeply; cultivate abdominal breathing.

5—Keep the body supple by bathing and exercise; recourt the sunshine; live naturally; abandon tannet underwear.

6—If this is your birthday.

Applying yourself steadily and with interest to your daily routine will be your best course. Seek recreation, but avoid the frivolous and trashy. For into your chosen circle will come one who will influence your life. Those born today will have good dispositions, trustworthy, reasoning powers and will, early in life, take a stand for the right as they understand it. Their worldly success depends, therefore, upon the breadth and truth of their early education.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

Are we going to have a playground? And may I ask where and when? The need of it is too plain to be denied. The children of our city are growing up in a city where there is no playground. The children of our city are growing up in a city where there is no playground. The children of our city are growing up in a city where there is no playground.

Then what? Don't be curious? That is all.

Seriously speaking we all ought to be just as eager to have a playground as we are for any other civic improvement. Even more so. The good of a playground are far reaching, there's no parent who is not a strong sponsor for one when they think of the benefit to be derived therefrom.

Here again comes an urgent call for united action on the part of our citizens. We intend to have a playground! All right! Let's have it now! Let's have it when your boy and girl and my boy and girl can go and enjoy it; not when you and I are doing by the fire in the years that are to come. Our boys and girls are just as valuable an asset to the city of Janesville as the boys and girls of a generation hence. And if we don't look alive to the way we train these boys and girls of ours the children of the next generation won't be figured in the light of a valuable asset.

We're all filled with good intentions my yes! I believe we all have heard of a place that's paved with them.

What we want today is not a class of people who are too busy to do, but a class that triumphantly announces "I have done" especially where the playground question is concerned.

The men of our city are really doing definite work in the playground question. If they form a ladies' auxiliary, as they plan to do, why should not the women of Janesville take up the playground question and make of it not a question, but a reality.

If the women of this city worked together we could have a playground in the very near future. We could! Say! Why don't we?

It's all right and proper too, for many mothers to say "I have not time to devote to this splendid suggestion." How about the women who really have the time, why don't they act?

Is there anything that stamps a woman more worthy of one's respect and admiration than the desire to do for little children?

See what the women of the country over are doing in this respect, wisely realizing that to begin with the children, to eliminate a great deal of trouble later on.

Train a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it. Now as one of the very first aids in this training—in a city—comes a playground. Let the men lead the factories, they can't help it. Let the women procure for our children and our city a playground.

This calling a meeting and "deciding" to something is far too vague. Mothers of Janesville ought to be willing—if necessary—to get out and solicit funds for this worthy cause, and that is in no way interfering that any of us are cut on the canvas pattern.

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction, May 21.—The Gun Tournament held yesterday proved a great success. Nearly a hundred gathered here from various places. The shooting began about 9:30 with many prominent shooters present. Ed. Graham of Ingleside, Ill., who demonstrated for the Remington company was also present. Dinner was served in the park by the Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church.

Mrs. W. J. Nelson went to Chicago yesterday while there she will undergo an operation.

Miss Beatrice Roberts spent Sunday with friends at Beloit.

Mrs. John Mullen spent Sunday in Milwaukee.

Miss Eillian Chatfield is visiting relatives at Ridgeway.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Williams have returned to their home in Nebraska.

Clean wiping rag, free from hooks and buttons will bring 3¢ per pound. The children can earn money by bringing them to the Gazette office.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

Lard is much better to grease cake pans than butter. Butter will burn and cause the cakes to stick.

The best home remedy for an aching tooth is a tincture of benzoin on a bit of absorbent cotton if there is a cavity large enough to put anything in.

Salt should never be added to vegetables until they are half cooked.

In packing away valuable books which are not to be used, pack camphor gum and cedar leaves and mice will not go near them.

The Table.

Custard Pudding.—Put a pint of milk on the stove and a double boiler sweeten it with three tablespoonsful of sugar and thicken it with the yolks of two eggs beaten with the sugar and tablespoonsful of flour smoothed with a little cold milk. When thick and smooth take from the fire and add two teaspoonsful of vanilla and a half a package of gelatin soaked in as little water as possible. Stir until it is dissolved. Beat the whites of two eggs to stiff peaks and set in the icebox. Serve with whipped cream.

Meat Relish.—Take one pound of figs and one pound of dried apricots, one orange and one lemon, wash and peel. Cover with water and cook until tender, then add five cups of sugar, one cup of water and one-half pound of seedless raisins. Cook slowly until the consistency of jam.

German Coffee Cake.—Two cups of soft bread dough, heaping cup of sugar, one-half cup of lard, two eggs, two cups sifted flour, one cup raisins. Mix and knead thoroughly, then pour into large flat pans and let stand until light, spread melted butter on top and sprinkle two-third cup of sugar and one teaspoon of cinnamon over the top and bake in a slow oven.

Prune Whip.—Four whites of eggs, 16 prunes, 4 tablespoonsful of sugar, vanilla and a pinch of salt. Stew the prunes without sugar until tender, drain and cut in small pieces. Beat the eggs to a stiff froth, with a pinch of salt added; add sugar, flavoring with one-fourth of a teaspoon of vanilla. Fold in the prunes. Pour the mixture into a buttered baking dish, place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for ten minutes, then remove the covering to allow the pudding to brown slightly. Serve cold in glass cups with whipped cream. If chocolate flavor is desired one tablespoonful of grated chocolate may be added to the pudding mixture.

White Fruit Cake.—Cream well one-half of a cupful of butter, add one cupful of powdered sugar and cream again. Add the stiffly beaten whites of six eggs, then add alternately two cupsful of sifted flour and one cupful of milk. Beat well for ten minutes. Add one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half of a pound of seeded raisins, one-half of a pound of chopped figs, one pound of grated cocoanut, one-quarter of a pound of citron cut fine and one-half of a pound of almonds, blanched and cut into strips. Bake in a moderate oven for two hours.

Lemon-Raisin Pie.—One egg, one cup sugar, one cup raisins, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, dissolved in cold water and fill cup with hot water, one lemon (grate rind and chop lemon and raisins together). Bake with top crust.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

This is a dish which is rather uncommon but very good and when once tried will be cherished and used.

Fish Pudding.—Remove all skin and bones from a pound of uncooked fish, chop very fine, add a half cup of crumbs and the same amount of suet, chopped, a tablespoonful of parsley, also chopped, salt, pepper and lemon juice, to taste, a cup of milk and two slightly beaten eggs. Bake in a greased baking dish, set in hot water, or steam it until a knife may be thrust into it and it will come out clean. Turn out on to a hot platter and pour around it an oyster or shrimp sauce.

Chicken Hash.—Chop leftover chicken, using bits of skin, also a little celery finely minced, add a teaspoonful of salt and enough water to cover. Simmer three hours. Cook together a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, add the broth from the chicken, two cupfuls, cook until smooth, then add the chopped chicken. Simmer and serve hot.

Cabbage Salad.—Chop very fine half a medium-sized cabbage with two slices of onion, mix thoroughly with cream dressing and serve on crisp cabbage leaves with strips of red and green peppers for garnish.

Another salad which is universally liked is shredded cabbage sprinkled with salt and sugar and then pour over good, rich cream and a small amount of vinegar.

Cheese Souffle.—Butter a baking dish and add two cups of bread crumbs and one cup of grated American cheese, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of paprika and two well beaten eggs; bake twenty minutes. All egg dishes should be baked in a dish set in hot water.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

"Darling, dearest, ducky, dear, look at me for I am here."

"Here am I, so dry that tear, dimpled, ducky, darling, dear."

THE MAN IN BLUE.

In spite of her sudden alarm she noticed that he was wearing his blue suit that morning.

"Well, if I take it," she said at length, "remember that you gave it to me of your own free will."

Doggishly, he held out the package.

"It belongs to you, doesn't it?" he said evenly, so evenly that the words were scarcely separated.

Still she hesitated, looking at him with fearful eyes, troubled nose. She wore a little purple "scavenger gown" caught up at the arseways with russet marlin spikes.

"Give it to me!" she breathed. She had been breathing through it all, but not like this.

She took it and shut the door, leaving him standing mute on the front steps.

"He gave me this package," she whispered to her mother.

"And why shouldn't he?" came the quick reply. "He's the mailman, isn't he?"

The beautiful girl nodded slowly, a great light breaking upon her.

22 MAY

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.

Applying yourself steadily and with interest to your daily routine will be your best course. Seek recreation, but avoid the frivolous and trashy. For into your chosen circle will come one who will influence your life. Those born today will have good dispositions, trustworthy, reasoning powers and will, early in life, take a stand for the right as they understand it. Their worldly success depends, therefore, upon the breadth and truth of their early education.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

Are we going to have a playground? And may I ask where and when? The need of it is too plain to be denied. The children of our city are growing up in a city where there is no playground. The children of our city are growing up in a city where there is no playground. The children of our city are growing up in a city where there is no playground.

Then what? Don't be curious? That is all.

Seriously speaking we all ought to be just as eager to have a playground as we are for any other civic improvement. Even more so. The good of a playground are far reaching, there's no parent who is not a strong sponsor for one when they think of the benefit to be derived therefrom.

Here again comes an urgent call for united action on the part of our citizens. We intend to have a playground! All right! Let's have it now! Let's have it when your boy and girl and my boy and girl can go and enjoy it; not when you and I are doing by the fire in the years that are to come. Our boys and girls are just as valuable an asset to the city of Janesville as the boys and girls of a generation hence. And if we don't look alive to the way we train these boys and girls of ours the children of the next generation won't be figured in the light of a valuable asset.

We're all filled with good intentions my yes! I believe we all have heard of a place that's paved with them.

What we want today is not a class of people who are too busy to do, but a class that triumphantly announces "I have done" especially where the playground question is concerned.

The men of our city are really doing definite work in the playground question. If they form a ladies' auxiliary, as they plan to do, why should not the women of Janesville take up the playground question and make of it not a question, but a reality.

If the women of this city worked together we could have a playground in the very near future. We could! Say! Why don't we?

It's all right and proper too, for many mothers to say "I have not time to devote to this splendid suggestion." How about the women who really have the time, why don't they act?

Is there anything that stamps a woman more worthy of one's respect and admiration than the desire to do for little children?

See what the women of the country over are doing in this respect, wisely realizing that to begin with the children, to eliminate a great deal of trouble later on.

Train a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it. Now as one of the very first aids in this training—in a city—comes a playground. Let the men lead the factories, they can't help it. Let the women procure for our children and our city a playground.

This calling a meeting and "deciding" to something is far too vague. Mothers of Janesville ought to be willing—if necessary—to get out and solicit funds for this worthy cause, and that is in no way interfering that any of us are cut on the canvas pattern.

Farmers Read Classified Advertising

One of the reasons why the Gazette Classified page has grown to its present proportions, is the fact that it is read and used by people living in the country. Fully half of the Wants in each day's Gazette are from farm homes.

Farms and Farm Homes, Live Stock of all kinds, Machinery and Tools, Seeds and Plants, Farms to Rent and Farms to Sell, Farm Help and a score of other things, all that appeal to the Farmer or the Farmer's Family.

The fact that more than half of the circulation of The Gazette goes into the country homes of Rock County, makes it an ideal medium for this class of advertising. A farmer with a horse for sale may reach practically every other farmer in the county IN ONE DAY AND AT AN EXPENSE OF BUT 25c. Results are almost sure.

PEOPLE LIVING OUT OF JANESVILLE MAY MAIL THEIR WANT ADS TO THE GAZETTE AND THE BILL WILL BE MAILED FOLLOWING INSERTION.
